

OUR STORY BEGINS . . .

Metropolitanville. A city without a sense of right or wrong.

A city where anything goes.

The story of our hero begins here at the Metropolitanville Library, where two friends are hard at work.

Wow! You'd think people would put books back where they belong.

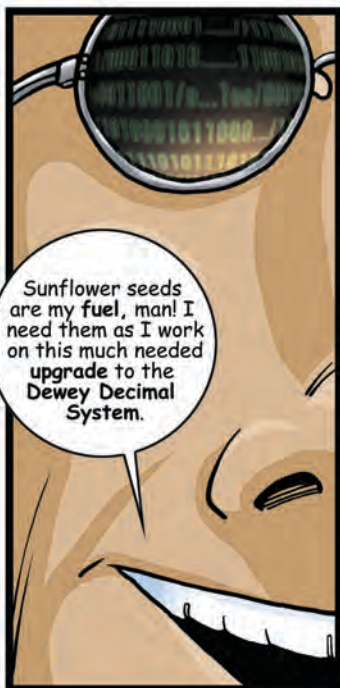

Nah, they figure the library pays people to do that. And it does . . . you!

I'm not sure they're paying me enough, especially since I have to pick up sunflower seeds, too!

They're biodegradable.

Uh-huh. One day you're going to drop a seed and blow up the computer.

Darren is messy!

Sunflower seeds are my fuel, man! I need them as I work on this much needed upgrade to the Dewey Decimal System.

Suddenly, just as Josiah predicted only two frames ago, one of the seeds falls into the computer!

Merciful motherboards!

What?

Isn't this the central computer for the entire library network?

Yeah.

And isn't it run by nuclear power from the city's main reactor?

Yeah, so ...

RUN!!!

But the books!

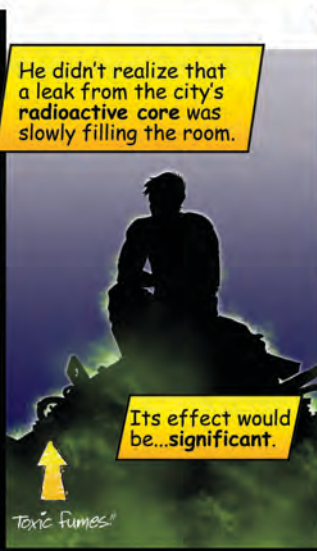

Josiah really flies back

And so the story of CAPTAIN ABSOLUTELY begins like all hero stories begin—with two friends ...

... and one spectacular explosion.

A great life begins by answering the call ...

Captain, I need your help! What do you think is wrong with our city?

Well, Mr. Mayor...

Fortress of Solid Truth

Crime is rampant. Our leaders are corrupt and wallow in moral confusion.

Dear me. What should I do?

The people need God's Truth. And I'm here to share it.

John 17:17

Some people may not like that.

I'm sorry, Mayor. I've got to go!

BEEP BEEP BEEP

WARNING:

EVIL DEED IN

DOWNTOWN

WILCO COMPUTE

MANUFACTURING

2013 SOFTWARE

Moments later...

CAPTAIN
ABSOL-0000F!!!

